The Board will be meeting this week to approve the tuition and budget for the coming school year. Re-enrollment information, along with the tuition amount for 2017-2018 will be sent home Friday, February 3.

If you are considering transitioning your child into a traditional school but are not sure if they are ready or have questions, please email Mrs. Gorst at agorst@thedepaulschool.org to set up a time to discuss your child's progress and recommendations of the school.

New this year, parents will complete the re-enrollment paper work online through Gradelink and have the option of paying the Registration and Materials Fee via credit card on the dePaul School website.

Please re-enroll early. We are at capacity and have a waiting list of students ready to register on Monday, March 6. Parents must re-enroll by March 3 to guarantee a spot for next year!

Super d! Show: New YouTube Series for Kids with Dyslexia

Dyslexiaville has launched the first eight episodes of its new web series by and for dyslexics called the Super d! Show. The short videos focus less on teaching reading and more on coping with the challenges of dyslexia and other learning disabilities. Topics include everything from bullying and struggles with schoolwork to anxiety and embarrassment—issues that are universal to all kids, not just those who suffer from a learning difference. The actors, all of whom are dyslexic or have ADHD, explore the problems they experience in real life while sharing strategies and instilling confidence. www.dyslexiaville.com.

Class Notes

...Mrs. Stanziani's writing class is working on writing and illustrating their own mystery story! Each child is a character and the name of the story is "A Lost Golden Jewel."

...In PE, the Traditional students are learning new skills in volleyball while continuing to reinforce skills that have been taught in basketball.

...Mrs. Schorr's composition classes are finishing up writing biographies. They did a great job with researching and presenting their work. They will be working on capitalization rules this week and applying it to our writing.

...Mr. Kenny has been collaborating with other teachers, having students produce Keynote presentations based on the biographies completed in writing class, creating Pic Collages about solids liquids and gasses for science class, and coming soon – learning how to make infographs!

...Mrs. Edward's social studies students have completed their "I Am..." projects, highlighting their individual gifts and strengths. The projects have been uploaded to Artsonia.com and would look great on any of the items available!

...Guidance Counselor Christine Bergman is helping our younger students learn and practice getting along well socially - being good sports, sharing leadership, working together. She is also working with the traditional girls to help them learn and practice getting along and resolving conflicts. In addition, she sees students individually to address self-esteem, peer relationships and school performance.

...Traditional science students have finished their planet fact books and will be making constellation rings and solar system dodecahedrons. Delta students are beginning the physics portion of the class.
